We offer most of the services your family needs, under one roof, including general and family dentistry for seeing patients as young as six months, cosmetic dentistry, orthodontics, and surgery. I work alongside my mother, who is also a dentist, which adds to our family friendly environment.

We believe in conservative treatments, offering the most conservative and preventative approach to all patients with their long-term success always in mind.

Conservative treatments include silver diamine fluoride in no-drill pediatric fillings. We can sometimes remove the decay without drilling, place the fluoride, and place a fluoride releasing filling over the cavity. If we must use a drill, we do not need anesthetic. This is a welcomed option and helps us win over even the most anxious children. We also offer nitrous laughing gas.

Bioclear cosmetic bonding is a solution for when porcelain veneers would be too aggressive and require the removal of too much tooth structure. Bioclear is an innovative approach to creating an incredibly strong and long-lasting restoration, and one without drilling.

We offer surgery and implant dentistry as well, but in most cases, we save natural teeth as often as possible. We offer multiple in-house services to help save broken teeth – if they can be saved, we will save them. Implants are an amazing option, but we believe in saving natural teeth if possible.

Our goal is to make dentistry fun and relaxing for even the most anxious patients. That is why we offer nitrous and oral sedation to help relax and forget your appointment ever happened. We know dentistry can be invasive and confusing, and we always encourage our patients' feedback to make their appointments better.

We understand your need for convenience and comfort. We offer Chapstick, headphones, neck pillows, blankets, bite blocks (ranging in sizes), TVs playing your favorite show or music, massaging chairs, and unlimited breaks; if you need a break, let us know. We can talk you through the whole appointment or work in silence.

At Hart Dental, we believe in providing you with the highest quality dental care above all.
