

Garden Party Essentials

Warm nights and longer days call for outdoor entertaining again. As we gather again outdoors, it is all about ease and simplicity so we can focus on the beauty of the company surrounding us.

"The plants we identify as herbs have so much to give," says author Sue Goetz. "They offer substances to heal the body, living fragrance, and a harvest of tastes for cooking...No other group of plants offers as much diversity as herbs. My goal is to introduce you to an abundant choice of herbs both historical and modern to grow for their varied usefulness as I show you how to create and care for exciting container herb gardens."
